Ping An of China SIF - RMB Bond Fund

★★★★
#Morningstar Rating™

Risk Disclosure

- Ping An of China SIF - RMB Bond Fund (the "Fund") principally invests in RMB denominated fixed or floating income instruments.
- The value of the Fund can be volatile and can go down substantially within a short period of time. It is possible that a certain amount or the entirety of your investment could be lost. The Fund is an investment product and is not equivalent to bank deposits. There is no guarantee in respect of repayment of principal.
- The Fund may invest in (i) fixed income instruments rated below investment grade or unrated; (ii) debt securities issued or guaranteed by governments or authorities; (iii) debt instruments with loss-absorption features which are subject to the risk of being written down or converted to shares upon the occurrence of trigger events resulting in a significant or total reduction in value; (iv) urban investment bonds issued by Chinese local government financing vehicles; and (v) asset-based securities, all of which are typically subject to higher default, volatility and liquidity risks. The Fund is also subject to other risks associated with debt securities (e.g. credit/counterparty, interest rate, credit rating and downgrading, valuation, credit rating agency, convertible bond and dim sum bond market risks).
- The Fund's investments are concentrated in RMB Income Instruments (as defined below) and in China which is an emerging market. The value of the Fund may be more volatile than that of a fund having a more diverse portfolio, and more susceptible to adverse event affecting the Chinese markets. Investing in emerging markets may involve increased risks, such as liquidity, currency, political, economic, legal, taxation, settlement and custody risks and higher volatility. The Fund is also subject to RMB currency and conversion risks and China tax risks.
- The Fund may use derivatives for hedging or investment purposes. Use of derivatives may expose the Fund to significant losses.
- There is no guaranteed dividend payment. Distributions may be paid out of capital which amounts to a return or withdrawal of part of an investor's original investment or from any capital gains attributable to that original investments and may result in an immediate reduction of the net asset value ("NAV") per unit.
- The investment decision is yours. You should not base your investment decision on this material alone. Please refer to the Fund's explanatory memorandum and product key facts statement (including the risk factors and charges stated therein) for further details.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide total returns comprised of interest income and capital growth by investing principally in RMB denominated fixed or floating income instruments. It invests primarily (i.e. 70% to 100% of NAV) in RMB denominated instruments including fixed income instruments, asset backed securities (subject to a limit of 30% of NAV), convertible bonds, commercial papers and short term bills and notes ("Income Instruments"). The RMB-denominated Income Instruments may be issued by government, quasi-government organizations, financial institutions, multinational organizations, mainland local government financing vehicles and other corporation.

Investment Strategy

The Fund seeks to achieve investment returns through active management of the major risks associated with RMB denominated Income Instruments such as duration, term structure, sector allocation, product selection and credit rating where applicable.

Review

The Fund delivered a return of 0.23% in May and a year-to-date return of 0.66% in RMB term[^]. Most of the Fund's performance was driven by our increased allocation to offshore bonds, especially long duration bonds as we view that the onshore rally of long end bonds has stalled and is currently trading rangebound. Our view at the start of the year is that the offshore dim sum bond swap curve and the onshore yield curve has room to compress.

In terms of credit selection, we saw good YTD performance in the offshore space by credits which are preferred by onshore investors as those saw significant rally, such as Hong Kong Government International Bond, Airport Authority Hong Kong and Zhu Hai Huafa.

Outlook

As China's economic turnaround stemming from reopening from covid in Q4 of 2022 turned out to be short-lived, all interest rates in China have been on a sustained decline. For the Fund, the most relevant interest rate is the Chinese government bond (CGB) yield, and although there had been hiccups along the way in the decline, the trend is evident and 10-Year CGB yield drops below 1.6% for the first time in its history.

As per our previous commentaries, we are still of the view that China needs to do more than just cutting rates to reinvigorate the economy, namely fiscal stimulus, especially consumption stimulus measures, targeting the poor people of China. We continue to expect more rate cuts to come in the year, coupled with the reserve requirement ratio (RRR) cuts and potentially more fiscal stimulus if tariff negotiations with the US breaks down. On the economic data front, deflation remains entrenched as we continue to see the producer price index (PPI) being stubbornly negative, although there are some green shoots in the real estate sector in the first quarter but we believe this will be short lived and is already being vindicated by the high frequency data showing sluggish demand. We believe as long as current economic woes persist and credit growth continues to be tepid, this will continue to drive interest rates and credit spreads down in the longer run. In the short run, CGB rates will be determined by the Sino US tariff negotiations. We are of the view that RMB bonds will continue to benefit from the introduction and implementation of policies, especially from a volatility-adjusted angle compared to the fixed income markets of other developed countries.

(1) The Fund will have dealing on any Business Day.

(2) Dividend distribution is subject to the manager's discretion, and there is no guarantee on any minimum dividend payment amount. Dividends may be paid out of capital which will result in an immediate reduction of the NAV per Unit.

(3) Credit rating allocation by Ping An of China Asset Management (Hong Kong) Company Limited assigns each issue or its issuer (if issue rating is not available) the rating from three credit agencies (Moody's, S&P and Fitch). If only one credit agency assigns a rating, that rating will be used. The lower rating will be taken if two credit agencies' ratings are available. Average rating will then be taken when three agencies provide ratings. Issues or issuers that are not rated by all three credit agencies are reflected as unrated. Cash and Cash Equivalents are considered as AAA rated. The lower the overall credit rating, the riskier the portfolio. Average credit rating is taking the credit rating that is ranked at the 50th percentile.

(4) "Net distributable income" means the net investment income (i.e. dividend income and interest income net of fees and expenses) attributable to the relevant unit class and may also include net realised gains (if any) based on unaudited management accounts. However, "net distributable income" cannot include net unrealised gains. "Net distributable income" which is not declared and paid as dividends in a period of a financial year can be carried forward as net distributable income for the next period(s) within the same financial year. "Net distributable income" that has been accrued as at the end of a financial year and is declared and paid as dividends at the next distribution date immediately after that financial year end could be treated as "net distributable income" in respect of that financial year. However, "net distributable income" which has been accrued as at the end of a financial year but is not declared and paid as dividends at the next distribution date immediately after that financial year end should be included as "capital" for the next financial year. Where the Fund may pay dividend out of gross income while charging / paying all or part of the fund's fees and expenses to / out of capital, the amount of fees and expenses that has been paid out of capital has to be deducted from the gross investment income in order to come up with the "net distributable income".

Fund Allocation: Fund allocations are a percentage of investments in asset categories (i.e. net assets attributable to unitholders) as of the end of the period. The asset category of the Fund is based on its predominant investments under normal market conditions. The Fund may shift allocations among asset classes at any time without prior notice. "Others" consist of other payables and receivables (except interest receivable) as of the end of the period. A temporary negative position may be due to unsettled trade activity and operational expenses. Percentage may not equal 100% due to rounding.

Top Holdings: These securities do not represent all of the securities purchased, sold or recommended for clients, and the reader should not assume that investment in the securities listed was or will be profitable.
